

I'm an XM listener and I drive about 75 to 100 miles per day. XM has become invaluable to my day. The instant traffic and weather are very helpful when we travel to New York or Boston which is fairly often. I would look forward to have this service for my immediate area to avoid areas of traffic problems. The other stations need to look at their services and rethink their programming. Isn't that what capitalism is all about?